INTRODUCTION

The report on Services and Programs for Females was required by Senate Bill 787 / House Bill 511 (Chapters 290 and 291, 2011 Laws of Maryland) enacted during the Maryland General Assembly's 2011 session. This legislation directed the Department of Juvenile Services (DJS) to report to the General Assembly on the manner in which the Department will use existing resources to ensure that females receive services that are substantially equivalent to those offered to males in fiscal 2013 and subsequent years. The General Assembly further required that the report include statewide and regional information on utilization of: (1) prevention and diversion services; (2) alternatives to detention, including day and evening reporting and shelter care; (3) the continuum of services for those committed to the Department for probation or residential placement, including evidence-based programs; and (4) educational and vocational training and services.

In order to discuss the status of female offenders with DJS, and in order to provide the most complete discussion, this report is divided into 4 sections.

- Part I will present a statistical overview of females at each decision point in the juvenile justice system. This will allow for examination of trends and will provide a detailed look at a female/male comparison.
- Part II will provide a list of all services currently available for girls. This list will be presented by region as well as by counties within each region.
- Part III will provide the utilization of prevention and diversion services; alternatives to detention, including day and evening reporting and shelter care; the continuum of services for those committed to the Department for probation or residential placement, including evidence based programs; and educational and vocational training services.
- Part IV will discuss how the DJS work to use existing resources to ensure that females receive services that are substantially equivalent to those offered to males in fiscal 2013 and subsequent years.

Part I: Statistical Information on Girls in DJS

Information presented in this section will discuss female offenders at each decision point in the juvenile justice system. Trends will address intake, probation, secure detention, and committed females as well as their male counterparts for comparative purposes. Demographic trends will be presented throughout and will also include an examination of the regions from which the juveniles enter the system. In addition to the demographic trends, the discussion on committed juveniles will also include data on adjudicated offenses (most serious offense in the juvenile's delinquent history), needs assessment scores (determined by the Maryland Comprehensive Assessment and Planning Tool (MCASP), juveniles with an identified history of abuse (also through the MCASP), a breakdown of the placement types, and serious incidents that occurred while juveniles were in out-of-home placements. The report will conclude with a section on recidivism rates that will examine the three measures of reoffending (rereferral/rearrest, readjudication/reconviction, and recommitment/reincarceration). Wherever possible, data will be discussed for FY 2006 through FY 2010.

It is important to note that for all tables included in this report, the data represented comes from information entered into the Automated Statewide Support information System Tools (ASSIST) management database by DJS Case Managers, Supervisors and facility staff. Its accuracy relies on timely and complete data entry. DJS Research staff generally allows time for data entry before reporting, and work continually with Regional staff to review case data for accuracy and completeness.

Subsequent to the trends presented in Part I is an appendix. This appendix presents a one-day snap-shot of sustained adjudicated offense types for the committed female offender population on May 11, 2011. This snap-shot was conducted in order to verify the breakdown of offenses (felony vs. misdemeanors) and to ensure that the system was capturing offense severity accurately in the specified data fields.

As mentioned above, a regional breakdown is included on all demographic tables. The regions are as follows:

- Baltimore City
- Central – counties of Baltimore, Carroll, Harford, and Howard
- Eastern Shore – counties of Caroline, Cecil, Dorchester, Kent, Queen Anne's, Somerset, Talbot, Wicomico, and Worcester
- Metro – counties of Prince George's and Montgomery
- Southern – counties of Anne Arundel, Calvert, Charles, and St Mary's
- Western – counties of Alleghany, Garrett, Frederick, and Washington

Between FY 2006 and FY 2010:

- Intake cases for females have decreased 15% while male intake cases have decreased 27%.
- The profile of a “typical” youth at intake remained consistent
  - Females were most likely to be black and 16-17 years old
  - Males were most likely to be black and 17 years old.
- The highest percentage of female intake cases has consistently been from the Central Region. For males, the highest percentage has fluctuated. Even with the fluctuations, the Central Region has been the highest or second highest for males each year.
- The lowest percentage of female intake cases was from the Western Region between FY 2006 and FY 2008. In FY 2009 and FY 2010, Baltimore City was the lowest percentage. For males, the lowest percentage of intake cases has consistently been from the Western Region.

Between FY 2006 and FY 2010:

- Statewide
  - For females, the most common decision was to resolve at intake. (Approx. half of female cases compared to approx. one-third of male cases)
  - For males, the most common decision was a formal petition. (Nearly half of all male cases compared to slightly over one-quarter of female cases)
  - For females, the percent formaled and percent informaled were similar (difference ranging from 2% to 9%). For males, this gap was higher (28% -31%).
- Regional
  - The Central Region consistently had the highest percentage of female cases formaled while Baltimore City had the highest percentage for males.
  - For informal decisions, more fluctuation was evident for both females and males primarily between the Central and Southern Regions.
  - The Central Region consistently had the highest percentage of female cases that were resolved while the Metro Region had the highest percentage for males.

* Admissions exclude any transfers within and across secure detention programs.

**A small percentage of juveniles are not included in the regional breakdown above because their county of residence at the time of admission is listed as out-of-state. For this reason, regional percentages may not add to 100%.

Between FY 2006 and FY 2010:

- Secure detention admissions for females pending adjudication decreased 2% while male admissions increased 8%.
- Female and male admissions were predominantly black during all years, and the gap between black and white admissions has increased each year for both sexes.
- For females, age 16 was most common during FY 2006-FY 2007 and then in FY 2008 the percentage that was age 17 equaled age 16. By FY 2009, the most common age had shifted to 17.
- For males, the shift from age 16 to 17 being most common occurred in FY 2007.
- The highest percentage of both female and male secure detention admissions has consistently come from the Baltimore City Region.
- The lowest percentage of both female and male secure detention admissions has consistently come from the Western Region.

* Admissions exclude any transfers from one pending program to another.

**A small percentage of juveniles are not included in the regional breakdown above because their county of residence at the time of commitment is listed as out-of-state. For this reason, regional percentages may not add to 100%.

Between FY 2006 and FY 2010:

- Out-of-home pending placement admissions for females increased 17% and male admissions increased 16%.
- For both females and males, the majority of admissions were black.
- FY 2010 shows a higher disparity between black and white female admissions than was evident in any prior year.
- A “typical” female pending placement was most likely to be age 16, while a “typical” male placement was most likely to be 16-17.
- The highest percentage of female pending placement admissions has fluctuated between the Central and Metro Regions while the highest percentage of male admissions has consistently been from the Baltimore City Region.
- The lowest percentage of both female and male pending placement admissions has come from the Western Region.

Offense Category

- Since FY 2008, assault (specifically 2nd degree) has been the most common offense for females.
- For males, assault and narcotics were equal in FY 2008, and since FY 2009 narcotics has been most common.

Offense Severity

- In FY 2010, felonies comprised 22% of female admissions and 46% of male admissions.
- Since FY 2008, approximately 60% of females had a misdemeanor as their most serious offense each year compared to approximately 24% with a felony. For males, the percentages were more equal between felonies (approx. 46%) and misdemeanors (approx. 45%).

The Maryland Comprehensive Assessment and Planning Tool (MCASP) Needs Assessment was implemented in February, 2010. It is an adaptation of a similar tool developed, and later validated, by the Washington State juvenile courts. The tool has not yet been validated in Maryland. All youth placed in an out-of-home program by DJS during calendar year 2010 were examined.

MCASP Needs Assessment*: Calendar Year 2010

Treatment Need	Females			Males
	High	Moderate	Low	High	Moderate	Low
Family-Related Need	48.3%	41.4%	10.3%	39.0%	39.9%	21.1%
Substance Abuse Need	44.8%	17.2%	37.9%	51.8%	15.2%	33.0%
Mental Health Need	58.1%	16.8%	25.1%	37.2%	19.5%	43.3%

*Approximately, 10% of the cohort was missing MCASP needs assessment data.

- 90% of female out-of-home-placements and 79% of males had a family-related need that was moderate to high.
- Three quarters of female out-of-home-placements had a moderate-to-high mental health need, compared to slightly over half of males (57%).
- A slightly higher percentage of males (52%) had a high substance abuse need than females (45%).

Youth Placed in Out-of-Home Program by DJS during Calendar Year 2010*

Abuse History	Females	Males
History of Physical/ Sexual Abuse	45.8%	13.4%
History of Neglect	27.1%	24.6%

Source: MCASP Needs Assessment: Social History Items 8 and 9.

*Approximately 9.4% of the cohort was missing MCASP data.

History of Physical or Sexual Abuse (during lifetime) and History of Neglect (during lifetime)

- Nearly half (46%) of females placed in an out-of-home program in CY 2010 reported a history of physical or sexual abuse during their lifetime. This compares to 13% of males reporting the same abuse history.
- Percentages of females and males reporting a history of neglect were similar for juveniles placed in an out-of-home placement in CY 2010. Females had a slightly higher percentage (27%) than males (25%).

*0.4% of admissions were missing a placement type data for males each year. Females had no data missing.

- Over 90% of females were admitted to instate programs each year compared to over half of the committed males.
- Approximately 4% of female admissions each year were to state-run programs. This compares to over 30% of male admissions.
- For both females and males, out-of-state programs comprised the smallest percentage of admissions each year,
  - Female percentages were slightly lower than males each year. However, the percentage of female admissions to out-of-state programs has been increasing each year.
  - For females, the differentiation between the percentage placed in a state-run program and the percentage placed in an out-of-state program was minimal compared to the differentiation for males.

Information related to incidents occurring while juveniles are housed in out-of-home placements is collected from facilities housing committed juvenile offenders. Data collected on such incidents captures a wide variety of facility events including ones that DJS classifies as serious: Physical Abuse, Assault, Death, Seclusion, Restraint, and Other Serious Injuries/Illness.

Serious Incidents

- A consistently higher percentage of serious incidents involved males than females.
- Between FY 2008 and FY 2010, serious incidents have increased 11% for females, and decreased 23% for males.
- Upon examination of each incident type that is serious, males comprised a higher percentage of each specific type with one exception. In FY 2009, females were involved in 55% of the alleged sexual contact/abuse incidents and males were involved in 45%. By FY 2010, females and males were equal (50% of incidents).

Recidivism

DJS tracks recidivism rates for three measures: rereferral/rearrest, readjudication/reconviction, and recommitment/reincarceration. Terminology is used for the juvenile system as well as the adult system because recidivism is not complete unless both systems are utilized. The rates presented are based on the last release from a committed program during each fiscal year and they show measurements for one-year.

Recidivism Rates

Year of Release	Rereferrals/ Arrest		Readjudication/ Convictions		Recommitted/ Incarcerations
	Females	Males	Females	Males	Females	Males
FY 2007	41%	58%	10%	21%	6%	15%
FY 2008	43%	58%	15%	20%	10%	15%
FY 2009	39%	59%	11%	21%	6%	15%

- Females have lower recidivism rates than males for all three measures.
- Between FY 2007 and FY 2009, rates are relatively stable for both females and males for each recidivism measurement.

*Most serious sustained offense in juveniles' delinquent history

**Total does not include: 2 additional youth with a CINS charge (1 youth had VOP, and another had an ungovernable charge with mental health issues) and 4 youth who were missing adjudicated offenses in the system.

- This snap-shot confirmed a similar breakdown of felony vs. misdemeanors as was presented in the FY 2010 table. On May 11, 2011:
  - 20% of females had a felony as their most serious offense
  - 79% of females had a misdemeanor as their most serious offense
- The most common misdemeanor was assault 2nd degree battery, and the most common felony was robbery.
- In addition to the details provided above, 38% of females with a misdemeanor as their most serious offense also have a VOP identified as an adjudicated offense.

Part II: Summary of Community Services Available by Region

The following pages provide detailed information on community programming options for youth in each region of the State. The program names are provided along with descriptions and the locations within the region that offer each program. Finally, the population served by each program is detailed to differentiate programs serving only females or only males from those that serve both females and males.

The regional breakdown of program offerings can be summarized as follows:

- Metro Region
  - Total programs offered: 12
    - 1 program for girls only
    - 11 programs for both girls and boys
    - 1 program for boys only
- Western Region
  - Total programs offered: 10
    - 3 programs for girls only
    - 7 programs for both girls and boys
    - 7 programs for boys only
- Baltimore City Region
  - Total programs offered: 30
    - 3 programs for girls only
    - 27 programs for both girls and boys
    - 13 programs for boys only
- Southern Region
  - Total programs offered: 8

Youth Empowerment Services (YES)	Youth Empowerment Services (YES) is a diversion program for status offenders and first time, non-violent offenders ages 12-18. The Partnership for Children, Youth and Families and the Department of Juvenile Services work together on this program. The YES Program replaced the Youth Support Center. Meetings and the program began being conducted in three area churches in Annapolis, Pasadena, and Glen Burnie. The 3 site coordinators of the program said that one positive result of the first 16-week program was that it elevated the scholastic abilities and performances of the participants. Some students were failing when they entered the program and ended up with B's in their classes. The model of the program works with youth who are using drugs recreationally but who are not addicted to drugs. Now there are 2 sites used with this program and it went with the HIP Program instead of the original program called Reconnecting Youth. YES is a 16 week after-school diversion program which operates in two separate locations in Anne Arundel County. The 2 locations were identified by the Department of Juvenile Services as being high-risk areas. YES incorporates a research based prevention		X			X curriculum which focuses on school performance, drug involvement, and behavioral and emotional distress. Each location maintains a Site Coordinator, prevention educator and volunteers.

Neighborhood Youth Panel	The Cecil County Neighborhood Youth Panel (NYP) is a juvenile diversion program, which gives first-time juvenile misdemeanor offenders the option of appearing before a panel of community volunteers rather than entering the juvenile court system. The NYP is coordinated through the Town of Rising Sun, and gives the community the opportunity to be directly involved in the process of Balanced and Restorative Justice by determining sanctions for youth offenders, monitoring sanction compliance and assisting in reparation of the victim. The NYP has successfully created an environment where the community and law enforcement agency interact in a program designed to address the many aspects of the youth's life; home, social, and community. The program provides immediate intervention with first time juvenile offenders and diverts them from entering the juvenile justice system.			X		X
Perryville Police Department Outreach Program	The Outreach program was developed by the Perryville Police Department in 2006 as an innovative program to serve local youth aged 13-21. This program was developed due to the number of police interactions with and arrests of local youth. The program serves to develop positive interactions and relationships between Perryville youth and local law enforcement. The Outreach program provides mentoring, group and individual counseling, life skills training and many recreational activities to program participants. This			X		X

When a first time offender is arrested, they and their guardians meet with local law enforcement to create an Individual Service Plan (ISP). This ISP determines what services the youth should receive in order to prevent re-offending. If the youth chooses not to participate in the program, or does not complete all requirements successfully, their case is referred to the Department of Juvenile Services for follow up.
Achieve: A Life Skills Program	Botvin LifeSkills Training is a program for youth in elementary, middle and high school. Teen pregnancy program	For pregnant, parenting or teens at risk of becoming pregnant at both high schools, Cambridge-South Dorchester and North Dorchester. The curriculum being used is called Girls Circle. A coordinator works with the girls and the schools to keep them in school, graduate, plan for college or the workforce, obtain childcare while in school and also works as a liaison between the girls and the schools. The program primarily uses an evidenced-based curriculum titled, "Girl's Circle" curriculum. They meet for about an hour once a week in each school for group. Group time is determined by participant schedules and availability. The coordinator meets with participants individually once a week during the school day as well. Both group and individual meetings continue through the summer months.	X					X

Girls Circle	Girls Circle is a structured support group for girls ages 9-18 where they take turns talking and listening to one another respectfully about their concerns and interests. Girls Circles are most often held weekly for 1 1/2 to two hours. The girls express themselves further through creative or focused activities such as role playing, drama, journaling, poetry, drama, dance, drawing, collage, clay, and so on. Gender specific themes and topics are introduced which relate to the girls' lives, such as being a girl, trusting ourselves, friendships, body image, goals, sexuality, drugs, alcohol, tobacco, competition, and decision-making. The purpose of the program is to encourage the development of strength, courage, confidence, honesty, and communication skills for girls; and to enhance girls' abilities so they are able to take full advantage of their talents, academic interests, career pursuits, and potential for healthy relationships. Adventure Diversion Program	The Adventure Diversion Program is an alternative intervention program for girls and boys in Kent County who have had involvement with the Department of Juvenile Services and are at-risk for out-of-home placement. The program provides experiential learning and pro-social skill development, blended with outdoor recreation activities. This program is based on the Adventure Diversion Program operating successfully in Carroll County, and is a collaborative effort between the Kent Youth, Inc., the Kent County Local Management Board, and the Kent County Department of Juvenile Services. The goal is to provide positive events in the lives of youth to help them grow as individuals, work as a team, develop leadership skills and learn an appreciation of the outdoors. To achieve this goal, the program provides a combination of outdoor wilderness activities and experiential learning. Some of the outdoor activities include hiking, canoeing, rock climbing, and nature exploration. Youth are taught skills for these activities through a core subject model that blends practical knowledge with team and character building exercises designed to challenge the youth to develop new ways to respond to relationships, stressors, and responsibility. Pregnant and Parenting Teens	The Pregnant & Parenting Teens involves a case worker from the Kent County Health Dept. who provides outreach services to expectant or student parents at Kent County high School, as well to school-age expectant and parenting girls who are not in school. The case worker will seek to engage these girls in face to face conversations in order to provide them with information to ensure a healthy pregnancy, a safe delivery, and a nurturing and safe home environment. If the girls are willing, the vendor is encouraged to create a support group to share this information with greater efficiency and to establish a peer support network for the girls. The case worker will also educate these girls about support services available to them. When expectant student mothers deliver their babies, the case worker will attempt to make at least one visit to her after delivery to determine if the new mother is receiving all services to which she and the baby are entitled and/or need. The program is funded by a grant from MSDE and the vendor is the Health Dept. The program is running well and the Health Dept. has been successful in identifying many of the pregnant and parenting teens in the county.			X				X

	CASASTART case managers work closely with teachers and other school personnel, police officers, social service agencies and neighborhood residents to coordinate, arrange for and provide needed services and support to prevent or counteract the familial, social, educational and psychological factors that make children vulnerable to substance abuse and juvenile crime. It focuses on a targeted population; it reaches children early—before they get hooked on alcohol or drugs; it focuses on families and creates a support network outside of the program. CASASTART helps families dig out of crises that may be contributing to a child’s substance abuse or delinquency, but, more importantly, it places heavy emphasis on building strengths that will help the family – and the child – confront new crises in the future, after their participation in CASASTART has ended. A focus on building assets and resources that endure beyond involvement with CASASTART, even while addressing immediate crises, is central to the program’s mission.

Part III: Statewide and Regional Utilization

The following pages provide detailed information on the following type services / programming for youth in each region of the State:

- I. Prevention and diversion services;
- II. Alternatives to detention, including day and evening reporting and shelter care.
- III. Continuum of services for those committed to the Department for probation or residential placement, including evidence based programs; and
- IV. Educational and Vocational Training Services.

It is important to note that for all tables included in this report, the data represented comes from information provided by DJS case managers, supervisors and facility staff. Its accuracy relies on timely and complete data entry. DJS research staff generally allows time for data entry before reporting, and work continually with regional staff to review case data for accuracy and completeness.

The regions are as follows:

- Baltimore City
- Central – counties of Baltimore, Carroll, Harford, and Howard
- Eastern Shore – counties of Caroline, Cecil, Dorchester, Kent, Queen Anne’s, Somerset, Talbot, Wicomico, and Worcester
- Metro – counties of Prince George’s and Montgomery
- Southern – counties of Anne Arundel, Calvert, Charles, and St Mary’s
- Western – counties of Alleghany, Garrett, Frederick, and Washington

I. Prevention and Diversion Services

Program/ Service	Description	Total Girls Served
Best Foot Forward	A social skills group for girls ages 12 to 18 that explores etiquette, healthy relationships, self-esteem, and career choices. This program is operated by The Tri-County Youth Services Bureau. Any agency can refer youth to this program. DJS regularly refers young woman to this program.	26
READY BY 21	The purpose of the Ready by 21 Program is to prepare youth for independence by focusing on three aspects of readiness: (1) Ready for College, (2) Ready for Work, and (3) Ready for Life. This program is operated by The Tri-County Youth Services Bureau. Any agency can refer youth to this program. DJS regularly refers young men and woman to this program.	3
The Gender Specific Group	An all-female group that addresses issues pertaining to females. This group was developed as a result of girls not valuing their own choices that they have in a male-dominated society. During counseling, many counselors found that female youths were unaware of the choices or options available to them in everyday activities; so a group evolved to assist them with this.	11
JOINS	A juvenile diversion program run by the Annapolis Police Department with DJS. The program is designed for juvenile first-time, misdemeanor offenders who receive sanctions, follow-up and mentoring for app. 90 days.	22

Boys and Girls Clubs	Provides youth aged 6-18 with facility based programs in character and leadership development, education and career development, health and life skills, arts and sports, fitness and recreation.	15
Neighborhood Youth Panel	The Cecil County Neighborhood Youth Panel (NYP) is a juvenile diversion program, which gives first-time juvenile misdemeanor offenders the option of appearing before a panel of community volunteers rather than entering the juvenile court system. The NYP is coordinated through the Town of Rising Sun, and gives the community the opportunity to be directly involved in the process of Balanced and Restorative Justice by determining sanctions for youth offenders, monitoring sanction compliance and assisting in reparation of the victim. The NYP has successfully created an environment where the community and law enforcement agency interact in a program designed to address the many aspects of the youth's life; home, social, and community. The program provides immediate intervention with first time juvenile offenders and diverts them from entering the juvenile justice system.	63
Perryville Police Department Outreach Program	The Outreach program was developed by the Perryville Police Department in 2006 as an innovative program to serve local youth aged 13-21. This program was developed due to the number of police interactions with and arrests of local youth. The program serves to develop positive interactions and relationships between Perryville youth and local law enforcement. The Outreach program provides mentoring, group and individual counseling, life skills training and many recreational activities to program participants. This program has a DJS diversion component, meant for first time youthful offenders. When a first time offender is arrested, they and their guardians meet with local law enforcement to create an Individual Service Plan (ISP). This ISP determines what services the youth should receive in order to prevent re-offending. If the youth chooses not to participate in the program, or does not complete all requirements successfully, their case is referred to the Department of Juvenile Services for follow up.	16

Program/ Service	Description	Total Girls Served
Youth Services Bureau	Program offers Victim Awareness Education Program, substance abuse services and gang prevention programming, counseling and a domestic violence program.	25
Girls Circle	Girls Circle is a structured support group for girls ages 9-18 where they take turns talking and listening to one another respectfully about their concerns and interests. Girls Circles are most often held weekly for 1 1/2 to two hours. The girls express themselves further through creative or focused activities such as role playing, drama, journaling, poetry, drama, dance, drawing, collage, clay, and so on. Gender specific themes and topics are introduced which relate to the girls' lives, such as being a girl, trusting ourselves, friendships, body image, goals, sexuality, drugs, alcohol, tobacco, competition, and decision-making. The purpose of the program is to encourage the development of strength, courage, confidence, honesty, and communication skills for girls; and to enhance girls' abilities so they are able to take full advantage of their talents, academic interests, career pursuits, and potential for healthy relationships.	56
CHOICES	Offered once a month for one hour - the program educates and informs youth on the truth about incarceration and how it affects their lives.	4
Job Start	Daily educational program in which the youth can obtain their GED and learn job readiness skills.	2
Anger Management	Offered on a six-week cycle for one hour each week.	23
Strengthening Adolescent Girls through Education and Support – SAGES	SAGES is an empowerment program for girls who are experiencing difficulty or conflict in school or at home. The program provides quality, comprehensive, emotional and educational support services during the critical adolescent year, using a strengths-based approach which focuses on the potential of each girl. The program is part of the Worcester County Youth and Family Services Agency. The program includes: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Individual and Family Counseling</li> <li>• Young Women Education Groups - Classes and discussion groups for girls cover relevant topics such as dating, work and health</li> <li>• Group Therapy - Supporting each other through peer group discussions and workshops</li> <li>• Community Service Projects - SAGES girls have served at local retirement homes and animal shelters</li> <li>• Career Exploration - Field trips to colleges</li> <li>• Cultural Field Trips - Field trips to museums and cultural points of interest.</li> </ul>	20

Program/ Service	Description	Total Girls Served
Just for Girls After School Programs	An after school program primarily for minority and at-risk students, providing middle school girls with gender specific, abstinence only, substance abuse prevention, homework assistance, social skills training, peer education, community service and recreation. Target Population: Snow Hill Middle/Berlin Intermediate/Pocomoke Middle School girls.	20

II. Alternatives to Detention: Day and Evening Reporting Centers and Shelter.

DJS has a variety of programs designed to safely supervise youth in the community as an alternative to secure detention pending adjudication. These programs include Community Detention (CD) – with the possibility of electronic or GPS monitoring (EM), Day and Evening Reporting Centers, the Pre-Adjudication Coordination and Transition Center (PACT), and structured shelter care. These programs are used either by DJS intake staff for lower risk youth presented for detention (these placements must be reviewed by the juvenile court the next court day) or by the juvenile court directly. These alternatives allow youth to continue with school or work and maintain their community ties, support systems, or alternative care. In addition, youth are closely supervised and are held accountable for returning to court as required.

The Department of Juvenile Services recognizes the need to ensure that DJS involved girls have access to detention alternative programs. It has been a priority to create partnerships and expand detention alternative programs for girls by making available day and evening reporting centers. In response to the legislation introduced in 2011, DJS increased alternatives to detention for girls by expanding access to day and evening reporting centers for girls.

All regions provide Community Detention, with the possibility of electronic or GPS monitoring to both female and male youth. The Department also utilizes shelter care when necessary. Shelter Care is used in emergency cases where the child’s well-being may be threatened. The judge or master may place a child in a children’s in shelter or a temporary foster care home for a period of up to 30 days before the child’s adjudicatory hearing.

III. Continuum of services for those committed to the Department for probation or residential placement, including evidence based programs.

A. Probation and Commitment for Residential Placements

It is a priority for the Department of Juvenile Services to work towards providing a continuum of services for all youth in DJS care and custody for residential placement or youth who are supervised through probation. Specifically, many regions have been able to provide gender responsive probation groups. These groups are led by case managers who have received specific training and resources to supervise girls to encourage their success. The regions that have gender responsive (girl's) probation groups are:

- Baltimore City – FIT Program
- Metro Region
- Western Region
- Central Region

Please refer to Part I of the report for a description of all the probation groups by region. During the FY 2010 the Department supervised 803 girls on probation. For a full breakdown by region please refer to page 6 of the report.

The Department of Juvenile Services operates one facility for committed girls. Prior to November 2011, the committed program was located at the Waxter Children's Center (Waxter), which also contained a pre-adjudication detention center. DJS, recognizing that the committed population would best be served in a facility solely dedicated to that population re-located its committed treatment program for girls at Waxter to the J. DeWeese Carter Youth Facility (Carter) in Chestertown, Maryland. Waxter will remain open operating solely as a detention facility for girls who are waiting to go to court or be placed in a treatment facility. The committed program at the Carter Center will provide the appropriate environment to treat our highest-risk girls with an entire staff solely focused on providing treatment services. The Department is working with community organizations to build partnerships to provide the committed girls population with diverse and applicable programming opportunities. The Carter program will also focus on a continuum of care by providing access to appropriate step-down and after-care services for girls as they prepare to return to their communities.

During FY 2010, 279 girls were committed to DJS for residential placement. For a more complete breakdown by region please refer to page 8 of the report.

B. Evidence - Based Services

The Department identifies Evidence – Based Services (EBS) as being the Blueprints Model Programs selected by the Center for the Study and Prevention of Violence (CSPV), a research program of the Institute of Behavioral Science at the University of Colorado at Boulder. Blueprints Model Programs have evidence of a deterrent effect on violence (including childhood aggression and conduct disorder), delinquency, and/or drug use with a strong research design; demonstrate that the program effects can be sustained one year post treatment without subsequent evidence that the effects have been lost; have been replicated; exhibit success in diverse settings and populations; and meet other CSPV criteria. The Department currently funds the following EBS: Functional Family Therapy (FFT) and Multisystemic Therapy (MST). The FFT and MST programs are primarily alternatives to group home programs.

Functional Family Therapy (FFT): FFT is a short-term intervention primarily being used as an alternative to group home placement. The programs target those factors (strengths and needs) that impact youths and their environments, especially within the family. Interventions tend to focus on family interactions, communications, and problem-solving, as well as parenting skills and prosocial activities. Youths served are 10 to 18 years of age, psychiatrically stable, capable of participating in a cognitive behavioral intervention, have stable guardianship, and are not primarily being referred for sex offending behavior. Services are typically rendered in the community and are convenient for each family. Treatment duration is 3 to 4 months.

Multisystemic Therapy (MST): MST is another short-term intervention that is primarily being used as an alternative to group home placement and is very intensive. Interventions work to increase parents' parenting skills, improve family relations, involve youths with peers who do not participate in delinquent activities, help them get better grades or start to develop a vocation, help them participate in positive activities (such as sports), and create a support network of extended family, neighbors, and friends to help parents maintain treatment gains. Youths served are 12 to 17 years of age, psychiatrically stable, are not living independently (have a primary caregiver), do not have a Pervasive Developmental Delay (such as an autistic disorder), are not primarily being referred for sex offending behavior, and capable of participating in a cognitive behavioral intervention. Therapist meets with the family as often as needed and is available 24 hours a day. Services are delivered in the community and are convenient for each family. Treatment duration is 3 to 5 months.

The chart below identifies the utilization of the Functional Family Therapy (FFT) and Multisystemic Therapy (MST) for the first quarter of 2011.

IV. Education and Vocational Services.

DJS is committed to ensuring that girls have the opportunity to receive education and vocational services. All youth in care are required to receive educational services while in residential placement. Additionally, youth on probation have their attendance and educational programs monitored and may be referred to various education or vocational programs.

The vocational programs that offer services to girls are listed below. The chart provides information for programs that serve male and female youth, in addition to programs that serve only female youth. The chart below is divided to designate programs that offer professional/vocational certifications from those that do not. It is important to note, however, that some programs may not offer professional/vocational certification but they offer assistance with high school diplomas or GEDs. These are included in the list of programs without certifications since they are not related to a specific vocation/profession. This is a working list of programs, and although it lists several programs, it may not be inclusive of all vocational and education programming available to girls. The Department currently is working to expand these opportunities and to refine data collecting efforts.

Part IV: Conclusion

It is a priority for the Department of Juvenile Services to ensure that all youth under the care of the Department receive appropriate services and programming. Accordingly, the Department has begun an in-depth analysis of the population and current resources to identify how the agency can better utilize existing resources to provide substantially equivalent services to girls.

Through the start of that analysis, the Department did identify an immediate need to expand alternatives to detention for girls as well as a need to re-locate the DJS committed residential program for girls. The Department worked with community partners to expand programming at Day and Evening Reporting Centers in Baltimore City and Prince Georges County to accept girls who are eligible for an alternative to detention. Additionally, a new Day and Evening Reporting Center for girls is slated to open in early 2012 in Montgomery County.

The Department also re-located the committed residential program for girls operated by DJS at the Waxter Children's Center (Waxter). Prior to re-locating the program, the Waxter facility housed both a committed residential program for girls and a girl's pre-adjudication detention center. Recognizing that the committed population would be best served in a facility solely dedicated to that population that program was moved from Waxter to the J. DeWeese Carter Youth Facility (Carter) in Chestertown, Maryland. The committed program at the Carter Center will provide the appropriate environment to treat our highest-risk girls with an entire staff solely dedicated to providing gender specific treatment services.

The Department is committed to further improving girls' services in Maryland and continually evaluating data and assessing the population to ensure that resources are directed appropriately.
